API

Using the API to process payments is the most flexible approach but also increases your PCI compliancy level. Read more about PCI and how your integration methods influence that here. Want to know more about the differences between the different integration methods, read more about that here.

The following payment methods support processing transactions through the API:

- Card
- Google Pay